An action lacking empathy	Scenario	An empathetic action
    	1. Your friend Molly is going through a difficult time. Your mum has just said that she is going to Molly's house and asked whether you want to go. The problem is that your dad has got you a ticket to go to the cinema.
    	2. It is the 100m final. The whole school is watching. There are eight children racing towards the finish line. Darren, a boy in your class, trips and falls head first into the grass. Your friends are laughing at him as he limps off the track.
    	3. You are walking across the playground and you see a group of boys around Stefan. This is not the first time you have seen this group tease Stefan. They are mocking his hair and trainers. One of the boys pushes Stefan.
